A JOINT DEBATE AT ROCKY MOUNT

Second Discussion of the Campaign for Senator Expected There Monday.

GOVERNOR TO CHALLENGE

Regarded As Certain the Senator Will Accept-Dates of the Candidates.

With but thirteen working days left before the Democratic State primary, the candidates for United States Senator, for Convenience and for the other offices to be Luminated are more acuve than ever be-fore, and are making a hard and fast finish. The dates for both candidates for senatorship have been announced to the senatorship have been announced for the ensuing week, and those of Senator Martin up to the very day of the pr-mary. Governor Montague has not made known his plans for the 17th, 18th and 19th, and for the 21st, the day before the primary, but there is reason to believe that several of these days, if not all of , will be put in with speeches to ...

The event of greatest interest between now and the primary is the simultaneous appearance of both senatorial candidates at Rocky Mount, the county seat of Franklin, on Monday, their first coinci-dence of appointments since the memoradence of appointments since the memora-blo King George meeting and joint uscus-sion. Naturally, evpectation of another-joint discussion is high, and many antici-pate that the two candidates will meet in their second and last discussion of the campaign at the Franklin county seat, the scene of some memorable political meetings vears ago.

Some Think Mann a Winner.

As the campaign for the governorship ws to a close there is great unitar-ty among persons in this city as to result. It may that in many cases wish is father to the thought, but the wish is father to the thought, but inalmost every case where a voter pre-dicts the success of this or that candi-date he is himself favorable to the man he picks to win. Mr. Williard has probably done more organizing here than either of his opponents, but Mr. Mann has spoken once in this city and in Manchester and Barton Heights, It is likely that Mr. Swanson will make one address to the voters of this city before the close of the causiagn, but if so, his date has not yet been announced.

For the Other Offices.

The campaign for Lieutenant-Governo The campaign for Lieutenant-Governor is proceeding very quietly. Messrs. Cabell and Ellyson are both making nurly active canvasses. Sentiment in this clip generally inclines to Mr. Ellyson as the winner in the State contest, but there are not a few who express the belief that Mr. Cabell may carry this city. For the Attorney-Generalship, Mr. Williams, of Wythe, is making a very active canvass, basing it chiefly on his attitude in favor of the single book list, Major Anderson, the incumbent, is deciding himself to the work of his office Major Anderson, the incumbent, yoting himself to the work of his voting himself to the work of his office and is depending largely on his record and upon the flattering assurances of friends given him voluntarily in many cases. Major Anderson's friends are con-fident he will win out by a handsome majority in the primary.

For Superintendent of Public Instruc-

For Superintendent of Public Instruc-tion, Mr. Eggleston is generally picked as an easy winner, certainly in this city and section. Neither he nor Mr. Hulvey, the other candidate, is making a very active canvass.

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydis E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

Now you can see how broad that

Now you can see how broad that resolution was. Well, that committee had hardly organized before the Richmond Times published an editorial article, in which it stated that it was commonly and universally known that the railrouds of the State had raised a large corruption fund to send into the negro counties to have the ballot boxes stuffed in favor of candidates for the Legislature who would do the bidding of the railroads. roads.

It had been already proven that Mr. Barbour Thompson, of the Southern Railroad Company, had had a fund of $3,500 of money put in his hands for the purpase of the election, and The Times' article charged that wherever that money went a representative to the Legislature came for Thomas S. Martin, and although the people he represented had never heard of Thomas S. Martin, and although the people he represented were all in favor of General Fitzhugh Lee. Here were distinct charges, then publicly made, that the railroads of the State had done the business. Here was the fact that Thomp-son had sent out $3,500 of money to be son had sent out $3,000 of money to be used in the election. Here was the fact that wherever that money went Martin got a vote. Notwithstanding all this, as soon as the committee organized, Mr. ... I, Downing, Mr. Martin's leading friend in the Legislature, and his leading friend on the committee, offered the following resolution:

resolution: Resolved. That in the prosecution of "Resolved, That in the prosecution of this investigation inquiry shall be confined strictly to the question of the conduct of the senatorial candidates before the election held on November 7, 1833 and the caucus held on December 11

The Legislation had directed the committee to inquire into everything that affected the election, and Downing's resolution confined the inquiry to the acts of the candidates for

The committee was composed of three Martin men, three Lee men, and one man who had voted for McKinney, but McKinney's friend and one of Lee's friends came from the negro districts, and, ... course. It was vain to expect them to permit any inquiry into our election methods of those days. Naturally, theremethods of those days. Naturally, there-fore, the resolution was adopted, but it cut the heart out of the resolution that the Legislature had passed, and Mr. Mar-tin's friends not only offered it, but they got it adopted. The smothering of the investigation, therefore, must be laid at Mr. Martin's goor. He and his friends Mr. Martin's goor. He and his friends defeated the will of the Legislature and prevented any investigation of the charges that had been made. This resolution, having been adopted, the investigation, as I say, was smothered and at once became a farce. Whenever any question of importance was asked, whenever any question was asked which tends ever any question was asked which tended to show that the railroads had do-bauched the Legislature to elect Martin, objection was promptly made by one of Martin's friends.

mapped out by the railroads themselves, but Mr. Martin's friends would not allow the questions to be answered to this day. Now, when you take the fact that a totally unknown man is elected to the great office of United States Sentior over one of the most popular Virginians that ever lived, when you add to it the fact that we did learn by accident that railroad money had been sent to it the fact that we did learn by accident that rullroad money had been sent out in the election, and that wherever it lodged the Martin voter was returned, and when you add to those two facts the further fact that Martin's friends sat down firmly and refused to allow any investigation whatever of where the rallroad money went and what uses it was put to, I say the conclusion is irresistible that the money of the rallroads debauched the Legislature of Virginia and elected Thomas S. Mr. Royall's Answer.

Now I want to say first about this card that the statement that I inspired the charges against him is without a shadow of foundation. He had been nominated by the caucus before I ever heard of the charges, I was exceedingly active in trying to have the charges investigated, but I had no connection direct or indirect with causing the charges to be made. But that is a small matter. Let's come to the substance of it. He says that the charges which I brought out in my Richmond sneech, to-wit; that he was elected by the use of railroad money, were investigated by the legislature and that he was exonerated by the committee of investigation. Now I say as a matter of fact, that that is not so, and I am going to give you the report of the committee of investigation in the words in which it was made, as follows:

new primings are quite common and sell at from 1 to 3c. Some far better grades here sold at 3 to 6c. In southern bel, cutting and curing is perhaps about haif done. In the old bolt it is just beginning.
Reports from the South are very conflicting as to the quality, but we are of the impression that the crop there is about an average one as to quality and color, short as to leaf, but rather thin. In the old belt we have had too much rain,
and the crop is inclined to be thin and bright. But with favorable weather, hot days and cool nights, the heavy dess will give all necessary body. Trade in round lots is very quiet.
